SECOND YEAR MEN VICTORS OVER RIVALS

Decisively Trounced Freshmen at Saturday' Meet.

DETAILED RESULTS

K. W. G Patterson Stars in Sprinting Events.

On Saturday morning at the Stadium, the Sophomores completely defeated the Freshmen in the track meet which was held between the two years. The score in points was 74 to 31, and shows how decisive was the trouncing administered. From the start of the meet, the second year men placed a healthy margin between themselves and their opponents, and they continued to increase it without intermission. The events were run off speedily, no time being lost between the various races.

The meet served to bring to light the ability of several men, some of whom will likely be wearers of the Red and White in the coming Intercollegiate Track Meet. In the sprints, K. W. G. Patterson, who starred as a Freshman in last year's meet, made an excellent showing, capturing the 100 and 220-yard dashes, especially, in very good time. The winner of the half-mile race, F. W. Hurd, although he had very little opposition, made the distance in but a few seconds longer time than the winner of this race at last year's Intercollegiate Meet. Hurd has a long stride which covers the ground in quick time, and, with a little more practice, he should be a strong contender for the University team. Grimson covered the three miles in good time, and showed himself to be in excellent condition.

There was not a very large crowd of spectators at the Meet, the probable reason for this being that no lectures had been cancelled. This fact may have affected the entry list also, which was much smaller than last year; in fact there were just about half the number of competitors that took part in the '22 meet. The track was fast and the air keen and bracing, which accounted for the splendid times made.

The results of the various races and the winners' times or distances follow:

BANQUET TO QUEENS MEN SUCCESSFUL

Festive Board Laid in Union Saturday Night.

SIR ARTHUR PRESENT

Presentation to C. D. Fraser, ex-Sec. of Students' Council

"Only forty-eight hours ago I predicted that McGill would beat Queens," said Sir Arthur, at the banquet held in the Union on Saturday night in honour of the victorious Queen's team.

"The only thing that saves me now is that I didn't say when," he continued amidst the laughter of all present.

Dr. Lamb head of the department of Physical Education acting in the capacity of chairman briefly introduced the speakers of the evening. The Principal, first to speak, complimented the Queens' men on their victory and McGill on the splendid fight she had put up. He was sure that no ill feeling existed between the members of the two teams. Sir Arthur regretted the inability of President Bruce Taylor to be present, due to illness.

Dr. Austin, Professor of Surgery at Queens said that he did not know much about the game of Rugby but he always lent his weight to support the team. Those who have had the pleasure of seeing Doctor Austin, know that this statement means quite a bit. He congratulated McGill on her fighting spirit and predicted that it would not be long before the championship would be held by the Red and White.

Dr. Campbell, Captain of the Queen's team thanked McGill for the banquet tendered his team and remarked on the good spirit existing between the two teams. Though this is his last year as a member of the Queens football squad he would be present next year to root for his Alma Mater.

Captain "Doug" MacGregor of the McGill team said that McGill had lost to a better team but had gone down fighting. The present squad is a young one, but it is the nucleus of a championship team. "Doug promised the tri-colour a hard game at Kingston in two weeks.

Errol C. Ameron, paying tribute to the good work done by Charles D. Fraser, ex-secretary of the Students' Council, presented him in absentia on behalf of the Students' Society with a small gift. Charlie has been appointed manager of the new Auditorium at Ottawa, and the good wishes of all McGill students go with him in his new sphere of endeavour.

NAME OF VARSITY BUILDING CHANGED

Convocation Hall Changed to Simcoe Hall.

A new name has been added to the roster of Toronto University Buildings. What was formerly Convocation Hall, together with the new Administration Building is now Simcoe Hall. This change has been necessitated by the completion of old Convocation Hall. In 1906, when it was built, it was left with the intention of some day enlarging it and present day conditions have occasioned this step. When complete, the new structure will house the Administration offices and the whole will form the Main Building of the University. Obviously it could no longer be called Convocation Hall, so the new name has been given it.

The name is in honor of John Graves Simcoe, first Lieut.-Governor of Upper Canada, and is peculiarly fitting as it was Simcoe who first conceived the idea of a provincial university for Upper Canada. As Lieut.-Governor he showed keen enthusiasm for the promise of the new province and the university was one of his most cherished visions. It was greatly owing to his enthusiasm that Varsity got is start in 1828 and no one can gainsay now that Lieut.-Governor Simcoe's desire has been fully realized.

The new structure serves another very valuable purpose besides completing Convocation Hall. It relieves the U. C. of the onerous settlement there of the Administration offices, which have been causing rather severe congestion, and allows U. C. to assume its rightful role as one of the several colleges of the university. It has been found satisfactory from a sentimental view-point also to have U. C. known as both U. C. and the "Main Building."

MONTREAL, MONDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1923

SHE CHANGED HER MIND

A woman, who was talking in an especially loud tone of voice, was heard by mere chance to make the following statement to a friend, in connection with Saturday's game. "Queen's played a magnificent game. You know, at the beginning I wore the McGill colour but half way through Queen's was the team for me." We do not know whether this was said in all seriousness or as a joke but we are tempted to believe that the former was the case. At any rate it was evident that the woman changed her mind. No one will question her right to do so—is not that the prerogative of the sex?—but we do not think there was any sound reason for her inconsistency. Queen's played a great game. But there was another team on the field at the same time, that also gave a great exhibition, and that team carried the Red and White colours.

Everybody knows by now that the McGill squad was forced to take the short end of a long score but the men were great in defeat and they showed fine possibilities, which should develop steadily during the remainder of the season. The McGill players, even during the last few minutes, were always on their toes, striving to overcome an unbeatable lead. Twice at least they almost crossed the Queen's line. Twice a Red and White back ran the ball out of the danger zone by inches, keeping the score from piling up. The players were game to the end, showing the spirit of true sportsmanship throughout. And when we come down to hard facts, what more is needed? For it is this 'sportsmanship,' which should be the very essence and life of intercollegiate competition. If it ever dies out, then we can cast our schedules into the wastepaper basket and go our separate ways, for the best will have gone leaving only the unpleasant dregs. But McGill rooters and all true supporters, unlike the woman already mentioned, have not changed their minds and are backing the squad, even more strongly than before. Let us turn our eyes towards the remaining games on the schedule and do all in our power to see the season through to a successful end. Throw unkind criticisms out of doors and boost, boost, boost. If we cannot do this it is better to keep quiet

A SUGGESTION FROM TORONTO

In a recent issue, The Varsity printed an editorial asking its readers to try and become better acquainted with other universities, especially those with which Toronto has the closest relationships. The Varsity said in part: "One of the surest ways to stimulate life and vigour in our own corporate life is to have closer fellowship with similar institutions and this fellowship, without destroying a healthy rivalry, should insure that it is of wholesome friendly sort which belongs to true sportsmanship and should do much to prevent occasional regrettable misunderstandings.

"There is nothing patriotic in provincialism," continued the Toronto publication. "Of course we believe that Old Varsity heads the list of fine colleges but have we any intelligent basis for our preference? Do we really know all we should about the others? We might, conceivably, in a few things, learn from them. At any rate our various student activities would gain new life from contact and co-operation."

There is much to be said for the idea proposed by The Varsity, for a great deal of all trouble is caused largely through a lack of knowledge. The great difficulty, however, is the establishment of this contact, which would lead to co-operation and greater friendship. If The Varsity, or any student in either university, can suggest a feasible scheme we are sure that it would meet with hearty support in McGill, for many here are seeking for better fellowship between the universities of the land.

CONDENSED COMMENT

Three hundred McGill students will do their best to get into the Mount Royal Arena this afternoon to hear one of Britain's most famous men, David Lloyd George. Many regret that the ex-Premier could not speak to the undergraduate body, as a whole, but we are, in reality, very fortunate in having to receive such a large number of tickets, for a good portion at least will have the privilege of listening to Montreal's distinguished visitor.

The Sophomores gave the Freshmen another taste of initiation by decisevly defeating them on the track. This is quite in accordance with the majority of the past meets and was to be expected, and the present newcomers will probably taste victory next year. The competitions gave some of the first and second year men a chance to show their worth and from present indications the chances ofr another track championship are good.
ces for another track championship are good.

IF A KIND WORD'S SAID

I said a cross word and the day was spoiled;
The sun hid his face, the dark clouds rolled.
And I felt so mean and grouchy that I wished me dead,
All because of the one cross word I'd said.

I spoke a cheery word with a friendly smile;
The whole day was happy and so worth while,
For the Sun laughed loud and each frown dropped dead.

Let me pray each night that the morn will bring
Kindly words to say and a song to sing;
If my prayer comes true, then I'm sure, each time,
That the sky will blue and the Sun will shine—
The day will be happy—for the frowns drop dead
If a song is sung and a kind word said.

HURRYING COLLEGE LIFE

"The real problems are not those to The mad rush for college life has obliterated the good manners of many students and brought forth unfavorable comments from town and campus.

Opinion seems to vary among representative students and faculty members, concerning the question of whether men or women are most polite. Among the coeds, the opinion is rather general that the men are more ill-mannered than the women and the latter are as polite as can be expected under the circumstances. One coed declared that she had noticed that students were polite when they first came to school but soon changed. Especially is this true of boarding club frequenters, she pointed out.

Faculty members noted that students were especially eager to leave class and slammed their books shut the instant the bell rang. Two laid this to lack of proper respect for the instructor. One said he did not blame the students and was as glad to hear the bell as the students were. Others thought it was merely the habit of hurrying carried into the classroom.

Foreigners Polite.

Foreign students were considered by some as much more polite than the Americans on the campus and in the classes. Some of the coeds complained that these students were monopolistic in character and not nearly as nice to them as they ought to be, but they were unwilling to cite any examples.

The general opinion seemed to be that thoughtlessness was the prevailing trouble and that if the matter was brought to the attention of the students they would try to remedy it.

Why I've cried and I've wailed.

RED AND WHITE SQUAD WENT DOWN TO DEFEAT FIGHTING BRAVELY--LINE WORK GOOD

Huge Attendance At Initial Intercollegiate Fixture of Season——Tricolour Backfield Was Largely Responsible for Visitors' Win: Hughes Played Stellar Game for McGill: Score 24-3: McGregor and Amaron Starred on Defensive Work: Philpotts Made 35 Yard Run: .New Rules Made Game Much Faster.

Under a gray cloudy sky, through which fitful bursts of sunlight penetrated at intervals, the Tricolour footballers from Kingston, on Saturday afternoon, tasted victory at the expense of the McGill team at the Percival Memorial stadium in the first intercollegiate fixture of the season. At 1.50 p. m. the rush seats went on sale and from then on until the start of the game it was a neck-and-neck race between the smaller bleachers' section and the concrete stadium in filling up. Practically every seat was sold and a large overflow crowd occupied standing room around the ends of the field and far behind the reserved seats. The rooters assembled at 1.35 in front of the Union and were joined at University St. by the R. V. C. supporters bedecked in their red tams. The fair co-eds had beforehand decorated their freshette sisters in green ribbons. Led by Bandmaster Gagnier and his musicians the rooters' parade presented a wonderful spectacle completely filling University St. from Milton to Pine Ave. On entering the field the R. V. C. marched directly to their seats while the remainder with the band started a march around the cinder track. About half-way around becoming uneasy of their seats, the parade broke and a mass of students, ribbons and flying caps surged across the field to the bleachers.

At this point the Queens team came on the field and were greeted by their yell from the McGill rooters. Three minutes later the Red and White players emerged from their quarters to take the field in the midst of brass-throated yelling and cheering from all sides of the field.

Boo Hoo, the visitors' mascot which was up till this time peaceful and contented, became very much excited, and took great interest in watching the McGill squad. He then spied Patsy the raccoon, mascot of the home team, sitting on the big drum in front of the rooters. At half-time Boo Hoo was taken over and introduced to little Patsy.

The referee's whistle sounded at 2.19 p. m. and the game was under way. For the first few minutes the play was carried well into Queens' territory. Hughes kicked over the line and Batstone was forced to rouge for the first point of the game. From then on Coach Hughes' proteges tightened up, and the whole game sea-sawed, continually, up and down the field. The score 24-3 does not indicate the strength of the two teams, but ratheer was due to the fact that the visitors, when in attacking distance of the McGill goal displayed the necessary edge in backfield play to score. Both sides depended greatly on a kicking game. In this department Hughes performed well for the local team, while Leadley did the bulk of the kicking for the tricolour. Adams and McKelvey starred on the visitors line; while the Batsone-Leadley combination was working perfectly in the backfield. For McGill, Wilson was outstanding in his tackling. Philpotts bucked the line to advantage and made same splendid broken-field runs while McGregor and Amaron played strong defensive games. Dier, in the second half broke through the Queen's lin to block their kicks on several occasions. The detailed play follows:

JUNIOR RUGBYISTS PLAY THIS WEEK

First Game on Wednesday Against Loyola.

The Junior Rugby Team is rapidly rounding into shape in preparation for its first intercollegiate contest to be held Wednesday afternoon against Loyola.

Coach Shaughnessy has added a few new plays which should bewilder Loyola, who were last year's champions. The personnel of the team has not as yet been announced, but it will, in all probability, be chosen after Monday afternoon's practice game with Lower Canada College. This game will show up the faults of the thirds, so that the intervening time may be employed in rectifying the mistakes.

Friday's practice game with Westmount High School showed that the line was a little weak in clipping their opponents. The McGill mentor constantly changed his men in the hope that these weaknesses might be eradicated by the new men. He seemed to arrive at a definite conclusion for the line-up since he stated that the team which was on the field at the conclusion of the game would be the one to scrimmage on Monday against Lower Canada College.

SEASON TICKETS ALL SOLD AT VARSITY

Students Get Special Reserved Seats in Bleachers.

That football has not lost any of its popularity at Toronto is evinced by the demand for tickets this year. The covered stands have been entirely taken up by those who were subscribers in previous years and those students put their names on the lists last term owing to the notices placed throughout the University at that time. The draw for these has been made and notices sent to the applicants. These tickets go on sale Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday, according to the time schedule on the notice cards sent out. The tickets cover the four games, two Intercollegiate and two O.R.F.U.

An announcement made in the advertising columns of the Varsity of a new system in regard to students' tickets will be welcomed by those who frequent the open stands. A special season ticket will be issued to students for two dollars.

This reserved students' section will be held for holders of these tickets until about 1.45 on the day of the game, although on the day of a particularly big game this limit may be fixed for an earlier hour.

A holder of this ticket arriving after the time set will have to take his chance with the general public.

S.C.A. HOLDS CONFERENCE AT BELOEIL

Plans for the Session Were Made.

MANY PRESENT

Bible Study to be Continued This Year.

Eighty five members of the McGill Student Christian Association yesterday made the trip to Beloeil for a setting up conference which was to initiate the season's activities and lay plans for the future work at the college. It has been the custom in past years to hold a similar meeting at the beginning of the session, and at the recent Elgin House Conference, it was decided to accept the invitation extended by the people of Beloeil, through E. C. Amaron, to spend a day at Beloeil for this purpose.

Those making the trip left Bonaventure Station at eight thirty a. m., and after an hour's run, arrived at their destination. They were received at the club house of the Beloeil A. A. A.. The morning's programme consisted of an informal outdoor discussion of the main themes of the Muskoka Conference, which has been preceeded by a detailed report of the conference. Reports and impressions were given by Miss Katherine Dawson, president of the S. C. A. of R. V. C. and by Miss W. Griffin, while Wendell Macleod and Elmer Macleod spoke for the men. Although no formal speeches were indulged in, the discussion was free, and no hesitation was shown by the majority to take part.

After lunch and a short period for recreation, some time was devoted to the making of plans for the work of the association during the session. Cece Teakle, president of the Arts Undergraduate Society, announced that a financial campaign to raise the funds necessary for the maintenance of the work of the S. C. A. would be undertaken in the near future. Bible study groups are to be organized at once, and promise to play an important part in the year's programme.

Dinner was given to the delegates by some thirty households in the town ,two or three going to each house, the hospitality which was extended to the visiting students being most cordial.

Church service was conducted by Errol Amaron while the sermon was delivered by Mr. Alexander Kerr, of the American Presbyterian Church. Bob Hall, on behalf of the McGill S. C. A. thanked the people of Beloeil for their courtesy and hospitality, and the service was terminated in time to permit the delegates to catch the last train to the city.

"Mamma," said a little boy, who had been sent to dry a towel before the fire, "is it done when it is brown?"

RECEPTION FOR FROSH AT HALL

S. C. A. Executives Will be Hosts To-morrow Evening.

Tomorrow evening after 8 o'clock, Strathcona Hall will present a scene of unrivalled goodfellowship. The freshmen are expected out in a body as this reception is a feature of college life which no new student can afford to miss.

The Board and members of the S. C. A. will be the hosts of the evning. The program has been carefully arranged and will consist of a "grand sing," some musical and vocal numbers, a few five-minute chats by friends of the freshmen and some eats served in the unusually delightful manner of last year.

As the object of the reception is each other in a social way, the greatest success can only be obtained if everyone enters into the spirit of the affairs and puts him out to make friendswith as many as possible of those present.

Those attending need have no fear of any hazing operations as this evening is one of those on which such practices are suspended.

MARKSMEN HOLD FIRST PRACTICE

Rifle Association Shoot at Point Aux Trembles.

The McGill University Rifle Association met and held its first shoot of the season on Oct. 7, 1923 at the Pointe aux Trembles Rifle Range. The shooters met in the lobby of Strathcona Hall at 8.45 a.m., and after securing rifles and ammunition, started at 9.10 a.m. for the Ranges. The attendance was a little disappointing, as only eight men were on deck, bu those who did come had a splendid day, the weather being excellent and the shooting results particularly good, for the first practice. The two best scores were made by P. S. Hunter, 92; and L. F. Geddes, 86. The wind was gusty, which renedered good marksmanship difficult, but the air was clear and free from "mirage." The various rifles were carefully tested and marked, so that the Club now has a group of fine shooting rifles, and excellent results are expected. The rifles used are the Short Lee Enfield .303's. All men interested in shooting, whether old-timers or new hands are particularly requested to turn out and practice. The rifles and ammunition are provided entirely free of cost by the Government, and the membership fee is only $1.50. Shooting is splendid sport and an enjoyable half day may be had by all who turn out. Those who attended the practice were P. S. Hunter, P. R. Wilson, L. F. Geddes, H. H. Geddes, V. C. Gould, F. Emmons, A. H. McNal and P. G. Whelen. After lunch, which was brought along, a short business meeting was held. The former president and vice-president, E. B. Johnston and H. Herbert respectively, have not returned to McGill this year. F. Emmons, Med. '24, was elected President, and V. C. Gould, Com. '27, vice-president. The next practice will take Oct. 14. All interested meet in the lobby, Strathcona Hall, at 8.45 a.m. with lunch; and the group will start almost immediately to the Pointe-aux-Trembles Ranges. A large attendance is expected.

MED. UNDERGRADS GATHER TO-NIGHT

Dr. Archibald to Address Society.

Dr. Archibald, Honorary president of the Medical Undergraduate Society will address that body on "Student Work in Other Countries" at the first meeting of the society to be held to-night at 8 p.m. in assembly hall of the New Medical Building. The subject being of a non technical nature will prove of interest to men in all years.

Sixty tickets to hear Mr. Lloyd George, ex-Premier of Great Britain, have been allotted to the Medical Faculty; these have been divided among the different years and are at present at the general office of the New Medical Building where they may be obtained by class presidents.

Before Dr. Archibald's address tonight, Moore, Kelly and his merry men will delight the assembled Meds, with some of their latest melodies. The musical part of thet programme will commence at 8 p. m. sharp before Dr. Archibald's talk. The needs of the inner man will be satisfied by refreshments which will be provided in quantity.

"The Real Problems are not those to be met after graduation. The Real Problems are those we are meeting every day on the campus."

"The greatest drawback to world understanding and advancement is the Closed Mind."

R.V.C. '27 OFFICERS ELECTED FOR YEAR

Terrible Doom Awaits Any Refractory Freshette.

A meeting of the First year girls was held on Saturday at 1 o'clock in the R. V. C. for the purpose of electing officers for the year.

SEND SIX FROSH ON LONG JOURNEY

Travel to Lachine on Auto de Luxe.

Six freshmen were sent on a journey of indefinite length, Saturday afternoon, when a crowd of angry sophomores placed them on board a passing truck seized for the occasion. It appears that the frosh sought to evade several of the regulations laid down for their especial edification, and the wily sophs, displaying great choler at this disregard for their authority, decided to banish the lawbreakers from the University.

Accordingly a passing truck was sized, but the sophomores, attempts to commander it were furtile. The driver, in some brief, well chosen remarks assured the angry collegians that he would go no futher, and to prove his statement jammed on the brake with Herculean violence. Nothing daunted, the two-year-olds siezed another, and far less pretentious vehicle, driven by a far more obliging driver. This man, it appears was heading for a city no less distant than Lachine. The freshmen were herded on, notwithstanding their violent protests. Their return to Montreal has not yet been announced.

ONT. MUSEUM GETS ANOTHER DINOSAUR

Dr. Parks and Mr. Snyder Deserve Great Credit.

One of the largest dinosaurs ever found in the Edmonton, Alberta foundations was unearthed this summer by an expedition sent out by the Royal Ontario Museum, under Dr. Parks. They also obtained a part specimen of a carnivorous dinosaur. Dr. Parks, who is in England, has left a staff of experts to overhaul the remains and prepare them for exhibition. A second expedition under Mr. Snyder was sent to study bird life on Lake Nipigon, and procured much valuable data.

It was expected that the museum would be enlarged, but no move has been made by the government. It was planned to have a new wing added to the museum; in the meantime the museum is greatly in need of exhibition space and its store rooms are crowded to capacity with hundreds of treasures. It has been possible to place only a fraction of the material on exhibition.

The furniture exhibit has been enlarged and on the third floor is a new showcase containing two brown bears who formerly inhabited the Toronto Zoo.

Professor Currelly expects to make a trip to England in the near future, where he would have an opportunity of viewing some very rare collections which are being thrown on the market. At present he is occupied in arranging the dispositions of the specimens received during the summer.

RINGS MAY GIVE CLUE TO RACE AGE

Scientists' Conjecture Over Indian Ruins.

Can the age of the human race be determined by tree rings in the beams of houses which previous generations left as remnants of a by-gone civilization? This is a question scientists have been trying to solve.

According to Professor J. A. Jeancon, former professor of archaeology at the University of Denver, who headed an expedition investigating the Indian ruins in Arizona, New Mexico, and Southern Colorado, tree rings have been read in the beams of old Indian Khivas and Spanish mission churches dating back as far as 1200.

Mr. Jeancon, who is now curator of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, worked with Mr. Douglas of Arizona University, who is botanist and authority on tree rings.

In the territory investigated many unusual sights were seen. From the hot desert sands on the south of the forest-clad Black Mesa on the north, there is a constantly changing picture of growth and decay.

On the Black Mesa huge trees tower, adding a ring growth each year. The great giants, standing many centuries as mute spectators, have watched generations of man come and go. Science at last is making them yield their secrets.

The annual rings of these trees date back as far as 1600. The ring reading is made easier as it is definitely known that each ten years of growth stands out distinctly, due to the uneven distribution of wet and dry seasons. The ring of the dry season is very fine, while that of the wet season is much wider.

The mission churches and Indian Khivas were located far in the mountains. It is known that some of them were built in the seventeenth century.

The Indians were very friendly to the party of scientists, permitting them to examine practically all of the ruins. One canon visited by the explorers had never been entered by white men, according to the statement of an old Navajo Indian. When the party was entering the canon the Indians warned them away, saying that it was inhabited by "chundi" or devils.

Prof. Jeancon assured them of his magical powers to drive away the evil spirits, but the Indians skeptically refused to accompany the party of explorers into the canon.

The ring reading of the beams was not attempted until information concerning the age of the mission and Khivas had been investigated. Most of them had been built in 1620 or later. In reading the rings of the beams in the ruins, the scientists found that they dated back about four centuries.

Connecting the data gained in reading the trees in the forest, which went back to 1600, with the information regarding the age of the missions and the age of the beams used in the buildings, the party was able to trace data back as far as the year 1200. The information agreed with the astronomical data in which the age of beams was calculated by sun spots.

Many other specimens were examined, which upon further investigation it is thought will date back several centuries further.

The territory covered was but a small portion of the great western area, and Professor Jeancon believes that even greater information will be disclosed when the ruins in Utah and other western states are studied.

NEWFOUNDLAND CLUB HAS FIRST MEETING

An enthusiastic gathering attended the opening meeting of the McGill Newfoundland Club at Strathcona Hall last evening.

In a cheerful and snappy address, President C. F. Blackler welcomed the new men, pointing out the encouraging increase in the membership of the Club.

He spoke upon the activities of the club during the past year, and expressed himself satisfied, only asking for the same whole-hearted co-operation for the coming session.

It must be mentioned here that the club has done excellent work for McGill. More students from Newfoundland than ever are attending here this year, due in no small measure to the efforts of this organization.

It was decided at the meeting that the club's first social event would take place, on the seventeenth of this month in the form of a smoker. Details will be announced later. In the meantime, Newfoundlanders are asked to keep the evening open.

A large turnout is expected, and an abundance of smokes and eats have been arranged for. A jolly good time is assured to all who attend.

FRIENDSHIP

Friendship with its strands of gold,
Binds two hearts together on this world,
With a tie that's everlasting
As the fateful moments past us whirl.

Brings us close in fun and laughter,
Holds us there in joy sunblime,
Hears us jest and tease each other
In what e'er race or clime.

Brings us close in pallid sorrow,
Sees our peaceful smiles to go,
Sees the fires of passion raging;
Sees the demon's cursed glow.

Yet, neath blows of wanton anger
Flinches not, nor is disdained;
In the heat of hell's invention
Liveth on and bears the pain.

Knowing well that on the morrow,
When the cursed fiend is gone,
That each wounded bleeding comrade
Will need someone to lean on.

Knowing when the storm's abated,
And our hearts are bruised and sore
That each friend because he's struggled.
Will sure need the other more.
This is friendship—Nothing more.

MEETING OF UNION HOUSE COMMITTEE

Several Matters of Business to be Disposed of.

Perhaps the most important business disposed of by the Union House Committee, in their meeting at the Union, Saturday, was the passing of a motion authorizing the purchase of an ample supply of dishes for banquets and other social affairs.

The Committee also drew up a dance schedule. It is their intention to make the coming social season a real success. Several minor matters were brought up, such as the repairing of one of the billiard tables at the Union.

The Committee wishes to draw attention to the fact that of late many students—and in this respect the Freshmen, owing doubtless to their greenness, are great offenders—have not observed the rule of removing their caps or hats on reaching the second floor of the Union.

Those present at the meeting were: Packham, Little, Leach, Hampson, and Jeckell.

The Wretch!

"She was deceived in him, poor girl."

"Deceived in Jack?"

"Dreadfully! She thought it was love that was making him so pale and thin, and he was only going without food so as to buy her presents.

The village flapper waits,
The flap, of clever kid is she,
Who never lacks her dates.
Laughing, smiling, petting,
All set for another bloke,

Many a happy shout,
But yet, the poor girl's never there
